

Last-Minute Absentee Voting by Last-Minute Prisoners

Fair Elections Ohio v. Husted (Susan J. Dlott and S. Arthur Spiegel, S.D. Ohio 1:12-cv-797)

Five prisoner-rights organizations filed a federal complaint in the Southern District of Ohio's Cincinnati courthouse on October 15, 2012, "to ensure that eligible electors who are jailed the weekend before Election Day and who remain confined through Election Day are afforded the right to vote."<sup>1</sup> The plaintiffs named as defendants Ohio's secretary of state, Ohio's attorney general, and the chair of Hamilton County's board of elections, who was named as a representative for "all members of County Boards of Elections."<sup>2</sup> With their complaint, the plaintiffs filed a motion for a temporary restraining order.<sup>3</sup>

Judge Susan J. Dlott held a telephonic status conference on October 16, set another telephonic conference for two days later, and issued a list of questions for the parties to address at the second conference.<sup>4</sup> The questions pertained to numbers of voters likely to be affected and the parties' standing.<sup>5</sup> An amended complaint on October 18 named five additional board of elections chairs for Southern District counties.<sup>6</sup> Judge Dlott set a hearing on the motion for a temporary restraining order for October 23.<sup>7</sup>

Judge Dlott denied the plaintiffs immediate relief.<sup>8</sup> She found that the plaintiffs had standing because the injury complained of had an impact on one or more plaintiff organization's allocation of resources.<sup>9</sup> The plaintiffs did not, however, present sufficiently compelling evidence of disenfranchisement:

[The plaintiffs presented evidence that] approximately forty-four percent of the people arrested during the weekend prior to the election will be registered to vote. Plaintiffs have submitted no evidence to demonstrate what percentage of those individuals will actually be prevented from voting, given that they will have already had an opportunity during the month prior to the election to request an absentee ballot or to take advantage of Ohio's in-person early voting system. Nor have Plaintiffs submitted any evidence to demonstrate the percentage of those individuals who are likely not only to be arrested during the weekend prior to the election but also detained through the actual election.<sup>10</sup>

Ohio's statutory accommodation for medical emergencies on election day did not violate equal protection, because medical emergencies and sudden detentions following arrests are not similar situations with respect to the burdens placed on election officials.<sup>11</sup>

A second amended complaint filed on February 8, 2013, by three of the original plaintiffs named only Ohio's secretary of state and its attorney general as defendants.<sup>12</sup> The court transferred the case to Judge S. Arthur Spiegel on August 20, 2014.<sup>13</sup> Following the parties' period of discovery, Judge Spiegel granted the plaintiffs summary judgment on September 16.<sup>14</sup>

The plaintiffs proffered "expert evidence that at least, if not more, than 400 late-jailed voters state-wide were impeded from voting in the 2012 election."<sup>15</sup> "The Court further finds late-jailed electors are similarly-situated to late-hospitalized electors whom the boards of election already accommodate. The boards of election teams should have no trouble locating late-jailed electors, as they literally have a captive audience."<sup>16</sup> "[T]here is no genuine dispute that African-Americans are disproportionately affected by this policy."<sup>17</sup> Moreover, "Those detainees who can post bond can also vote, whereas those who cannot, cannot. As such, Ohio's denial of the ability to vote to late-jailed electors acts as an unconstitutional wealth-based voting restriction."<sup>18</sup>

On October 24, a panel of the court of appeals, over a dissent, vacated Judge Spiegel's summary judgment and ordered the case dismissed, finding that the plaintiffs lacked standing.<sup>19</sup> On the one hand, the court held, allocation of resources to advise persons how to comport with the law or to seek a change in the law cannot be sufficient to afford standing to challenge the law.<sup>20</sup> On the other hand, the relationship between the organizations and election-weekend-detainees is insufficient to afford third-party standing.<sup>21</sup>
