

11th Annual Summer Institute for Teachers

Federal Trials & Great Debates in United States History

June 19-24, 2016. Washington, D.C.

Designed especially for teachers of U.S. History, Government, Civics, and Law...

The Federal Trials and Great Debates Summer Institute deepens participants' knowledge of the federal judiciary and of the role the federal courts have played in key public controversies that have defined our constitutional and other legal rights.

Cases to be studied include:

The Debs Case

The Trial of Susan B. Anthony

The Rosenberg Trial

These cases will be discussed by nationally-recognized scholars and jurists.

Overview

Participants will work closely throughout the week-long Institute with leading historians, federal judges, and curriculum consultants, focusing on three landmark federal trials through curriculum developed by the Federal Judicial Center.

How to Apply

Applications can be found at www.ambar.org/summerinstitute

Participation will be limited to 20 teachers. Travel, lodging, and meal expenses will be reimbursed to Institute participants according to U.S. government per diem rates.

Applications must be postmarked by March 2, 2016.

What previous participants of the Institute had to say:

"The Institute provided invaluable information about the judicial branch far beyond textbooks and other sources."

"Everything exceeded my expectations. I will be sure to encourage my colleagues to apply."

"Great program in terms of giving me materials for teaching, experiencing the federal court system and working with both the institute staff and fellow teachers."
