

Court-Ordered County Precinct Lines While Preclearance Is Pending

Vasquez-Lopez v. Medina County
(Orlando L. Garcia, W.D. Tex. 5:11-cv-945)

A federal complaint filed on November 10, 2011, in the Western District of Texas, 18 days before the beginning of a ballot qualification period for Medina County elections for county commissioners and justices of the peace, sought to enjoin a districting plan established after the 2010 census that had not yet received preclearance pursuant to section 5 of the Voting Rights Act.¹ With their complaint, the plaintiffs—two voters—filed a motion for a temporary restraining order.²

On the day that the complaint was filed, Judge Orlando L. Garcia granted the plaintiffs a temporary restraining order.³ Five days later, Judge Garcia ordered briefing on various issues, including, “If Medina County’s proposed re-districting plans are not precleared before November 28, 2011, an interim court-ordered plan will be necessary for the 2012 elections to proceed in a timely fashion.”⁴

On November 22, the plaintiffs and the county reported that they had agreed on a proposed court-ordered plan.⁵ Judge Garcia approved the plan on the following day.⁶ On May 22, 2012, Judge Garcia awarded the plaintiffs $35,546.93 in attorney fees and costs.⁷
