Dear Mr. Landis:

I have had no experiences with my case assignments from which I could form any conclusions as to the efficacy of our Civil Justice Reform Act plan.

While I may have no empirical data, I remain convinced that compliance with the plan will result in the attainment of its purposes. As time goes by, I would expect compliance to occur routinely.

You may consider this as my response to your request in your letter of January 22, 1993.

Very truly yours,

Ronald L. Buckwalter
